Every insured person is a member of the company and is in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium.

The directors are required to be peculiarly interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by its officers for the faithful performance of their duties.

Highly Important to Farmers.
 THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL,
 LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

This Company continues to take risks upon 1. Farm Property, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers,) household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies.

All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses—your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by LETTER THEM ALONE.

Every one looks to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last four years made no return to the stockholders, and for the last year we have made a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

Highly Important to Farmers.
THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL,
LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers,) household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, &c., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies. All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses only your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by LETTING THEM ALONE.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

The Hunters' Last Bullet.

BY CAPT. A. T. MAXWELL, U. S. A.

For nearly ten miles along the northwest base of the ridge our fight had continued; the herd of buffaloes with our companions had long since disappeared in the northern bend, the Crows had dropped off one after another, until not more than a dozen besides those on the ridge continued the race, and those were mostly a mile or more behind, and losing ground every moment.

But there were seven of the warriors on whom, in all that desperate race, we had not gained a single inch.

Four of these were of the party of the ridge, while the other three were of those who had followed along the plain.

"Look ye here, lieutenant—this won't never answer," said old Judah, suddenly reining in his horse, and at the same moment grasping the bridle rein of mine, and almost flinging him back upon his haunches—

"I tell you, sir, we must drill a hole or two in them chaps' skulls, or they'll cut us off, sartain sure, before we can get across the ridge." Now my advice is, lieutenant, that you take these rascals on the plain in hand, while I look after them beggars on the hill side.

"But listen, youngster—you must mind that the cunning devils don't dodge your bullets. They'll expect you to aim at their heads and then at the flash of your piece, they'll fling themselves flat along their horse's neck, or it may be, drop right alongside the animal, so that your bullet'll go whistling by without touching nothing. So you see you must aim just a few inches above the horse's withers, and ten to one you'll bore a hole square in the top of Mr. Crow's head."

The last word had scarcely passed the lips of my companion, when I followed his advice to the letter, by singling out the foremost Indian, and drawing a "bee" on him, or rather his horse, just clear of his shoulders. I observed that at the flash of my rifle, every one of the Indians fell prostrate on the necks of their horses, with their heads not higher than those of the animal.

My customer was mistaken that time, however, for a moment after I fired he sprang bolt upright, dropped his rifle, and after flinging his arms about in the most violent manner for a few breaths, he toppled over backwards and fell heavily to the ground.

"That's the fashion to count up our takes on the bloody red thieves, lieutenant," observed old Judah in a tone of exultation, as the sharp crack of his rifle followed mine, and one of the side hill warriors plunged headlong from his saddle—"that's the way to take 'em, lad. Both them chaps got our bits of lead through their brains—if it so be these infernal skunks have got any brains."

"They're cunning devils though, and our next bullet won't wing 'em in that way. No, no, you hold on your fire till you see how—no, hang it, as soon as you're ready, we'll both fire together—but this time aim about four feet from the horse's back—just about their heads as they sit in their usual way. What say—are you ready?"

"Aye, Judah, all ready."

"Well, blaze away—Fire!"

At the simultaneous flashes of our rifles, the five surviving Indians leaped to their feet on the backs of their horses, and then as quick as thought two of them dropped their weapons, clapped their hands to their breasts and plunged headlong forward over their horse's head to the ground.

"Foolish again!" shouted the hunter in an exultant tone. "Leftevant, there's not many of these red western niggers that's got cunning enough to play rifle and tomahawk with old Judah Gainsly."

"But look ye here—we may venture to try the crossing of the ridge now," and within fifteen minutes we were dashing up the ascent crossing the Indians course at right angles, not sixty yards distant, but as there was only three of them left, we had but little apprehension on our account; having made up our minds to pick off the three fool hardy fellows before we gained the summit of the ridge, and then ride back to the steamer at leisure.

We were half way up the hill, with our rifles loaded, and just about to rein up for another pop at the Indians, when I made the discovery that somehow in dashing through the brushwood, the hammer of my rifle had got caught and wouldn't entirely off, so the gun was useless.

Almost at the same moment that I discovered the accident of my rifle, an exclamation of despair from the lips of my companion fell upon my ears, and as soon as he could speak coherently, I learned that he had met with an accident little less serious than mine, inasmuch as he had lost his bullet pouch somewhere below us, and that he was with only a single bullet, and that in his gun.

For a few moments the stalwart, hard featured old hunter fairly foamed at the mouth like a mad dog and roared in his mad excitement. But he soon quieted down, and after trying my bullets, and finding them considerably too large for his rifle, he spoke to me calmly as he had during the day done.

"This is bad, lieutenant—mighty bad. But we must make the best way we can of it, and trust to Providence and our horses' bottom. But look ye here, lad!" he sung out as we gained the crest of the ridge—"two of them red devils are better mounted than we are. And with your assistance, lieutenant, I'll try and clip them two fast ones at one shot, after which we can settle the last one unless he runs away, or run away ourselves, just as we please."

Old Judah dismounted as he spoke, and giving me the bridle of his horse, which he requested me to lead down the hill-side at a smart gallop, and in a straight line as we had been going, he began looking around him for some place of concealment. His quick eye soon caught sight of a huge chestnut tree close by the side of the trail, and I urged my two horses down the slope at their best speed—which considering that the descent was at an angle of full thirty-five degrees from the plain of the horizon, was not 2.40 speed, or in the most approved style of equestrian elegance—as I went down the hill I saw old Judah crawl into the hole in the old tree, and disappear—man, rifle, hunting shirt, leggings, wolf skin cap and all.

I was half way to the bottom of the hill, when two sharp reports, and a moment later, the hissing of two bullets as they cut the air within ten inches of either side of my head, told me beyond all question, that my Indian friends—two of them certainly—meant to keep up a leaden correspondence with me at least.

A single quick glance over my shoulders, showed me the two Crows urging their horses down the steep slope at their very best speed, while, by the way they had slung their rifles across their shoulders without reloading them. I knew they had judged that my companion must have fallen from a wound received on the other side of the ridge, and as they considered me sure game, they did not deem it worth while to lose any of the distance between us, by reining in their horses to reload their rifles.

Thirty seconds might have passed after the two shots were fired, and I had almost gained level ground, when I heard an almost unearthly whoop, which I knew in a moment to come from the old hunter, and turning in my saddle, I saw the two Indians who fired at me had stopped stock still and were loading their rifles in the greatest possible hurry, while some hundred and fifty yards further up the hill, stood old Judah, just in the act of taking aim at the third savage who had raised the ridge and came sweeping down the trail with his rifle levelled at the hunter.

At the instant I was looking for the flash of my companion's rifle, the old frontiersman let fall the muzzle of his rifle, and a breath later dropped it entirely, he drew himself up to his full height, and turning towards the single Crow, he uttered a peculiar taunting whoop of defiance, which drew forth a yell of rage from the savage who came driving on at a furious speed, still covering the hunter with the muzzle of his rifle.

He was scarcely thirty yards from the old hunter, when, without checking the speed of his horse in the least, he fired. But the bullet whistled harmlessly by over the prostrate form of the wary old hunter, who, quick as thought, dropped to the earth at the flash of the Indian's rifle.

The tremendous whoop of the hunter had started the two Crows beneath him, and with their half loaded rifles they sat there apparently bewildered and half stupefied at the sudden appearance of old Judah now in the rear, while the single warrior came thundering along down the hill side, his horse unmanageable, his rifle unloaded, and himself, accustomed to rough riding scarcely able to maintain his seat in his wild, plunging course down that rugged steep.

Almost before one could have counted ten, the horse had borne his rider to the spot where the hunter now no longer prostrate, but standing in the path, grasping in his right hand a fragment of rock, that a giant might have failed to wield, while his left was outstretched, as if to—the next breath revealed his whole intention; for as the horse came dashing on, the veteran hunter grasped him by the nostrils with such a grip, that in an instant the frightened mustang was hung quivering back upon his haunches, while the Crow was flung violently to the earth, which he had barely touched when down came the ponderous rock upon his naked head, mangle and crushing his face and skull out of the very shape of humanity. Scarcely had the rock left his hand, when old Judah snatched his rifle from the ground, leaped upon the back of the Indian's horse, and with another whoop dashed right on down the steep pathway towards the two remaining Crows, who, as if panic-stricken at the death of their comrade, and the strange stratagem of the old hunter, turned and fled for life, while the cause of their terror came yelling and whooping on in swift pursuit.

When the Crows passed me they were so near and wholly defenceless that I could easily have brought down either or both of their horses with the butt of my crippled rifle. But I was so absorbed by the interest of the singular race that I scarcely noticed the fugitives, permitting them to pass by unmolested.

As old Judah drew up with me, I observed that he was guiding his horse from side to side as he dashed along the trail, holding the hide reins within his teeth, while he every few seconds poised his rifle on his breast and then lowered the muzzle again, until I comprehended that his intention was to get them in range so as to cover them both with his rifle.

He had passed me some thirty yards and the Crows were some fifty more in advance of him, when a sudden turn in the trail brought them in a line, and in less than three seconds the bullet in old Judah's rifle sped on its mission of death.

Striking the nearest Indian in the back of the neck, at the junction with the spine, it passed out through his throat and hit the other who must have turned his head on the instant, as the bullet hit him in the right eye which it tore from its socket, and then buried itself in his brain.

Thirty minutes later, we were scouring away across the prairies towards the steamer, with three extra horses, the same number of rifles, and several articles of Crow property, which was of small value except as trophies of victory.

On the following day we picked up the remainder of our party, and in less than an hour thereafter, we were off on another buffalo hunt.

ALBANY, July 11th.

The business portion of Cossackville village, about 30 miles south of Albany, on the Hudson river, was entirely destroyed by fire last night. Forty buildings were totally destroyed, including three hotels and the post office. Loss estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000.

The whole of the lower landing was burned down with the exception of a dry goods store, kept by a Mr. Lasher. The building saved was fire proof. Some twenty-five houses were burned to the ground.

NEW YORK, July 7th.

Robert Schuyler was well known in Boston, doubtless from his extensive business relations, his family connections, and the circumstances of his collegiate education. He was graduated at Harvard University in 1817, in a class remarkable for the talent of its members, as it included among others, George Bancroft, S. A. Elliot, Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tving, (of St. George's Church, N. Y.) and Cal b. Cushing. Stephen Schuyler was one of the class at Cambridge in 1820. These gentlemen are grandsons of General Schuyler, of revolutionary fame, the nephews of Alexander Hamilton. Their father married for his second wife the daughter of a distinguished physician of eastern Massachusetts, and their relatives are well known in financial and literary circles in Boston.—Correspondence of Boston Transcript.

UNITED STATES COURT.—This court adjourned this forenoon, having been in session ten days. Over one hundred causes were disposed of; among those were two causes for infringement of a patent right. William T. Sterling was convicted of embezzling letters from his post office and sentenced to Waupun for ten years. John Drake plead guilty to the indictment against him for stealing letters from U. S. mail and sentenced to 1 year's imprisonment. Henry Wentworth was acquitted of the charge of counterfeiting coin, and the jury was not able to agree as to Wm. Wentworth; Henry is again arrested for passing counterfeit coin. These and the other cases pending are for trial at a special term to be held at Milwaukee on the second Monday of November next.

A special term for law and chancery business is ordered to commence at Milwaukee on the first Monday of September next.—Madison Argus 13th.

The Louisville Courier states that one of the jurors in the Ward trial has been expelled from the church to which he belonged in Elizabethtown, for having sworn that he had formed no opinion in that case, when it was proved that he had repeatedly expressed an opinion. Other evidence was also elicited which will be laid before the grand jury.

Charles T. Shelton, of New York, denies that he is a defaulter to the Empire stone dressing company, and he states that it is more than a year since he resigned the presidency, when his accounts were all right.

MONDAY MORNING, JULY 17, 1854.

MADISON CONVENTION.—We published Saturday morning a portion of the proceedings of this convention, and ought to have had the full official report for to-day's paper; but the want of a daily mail with Madison will throw over its publication till to-morrow.

It will be nothing new to the readers of the Gazette to be told that we viewed that convention with distrust—that we feared its objects were more the exaltation of individuals than the advancement of a principle, and that its controlling spirit would be such that we could have no sympathy and would have no connection with it. Thus regarding it, and with no disposition to readily change a pre-conceived opinion of its character, one of the editors attended it to see for himself and trust no man's report concerning it. It is true that some things were said to which we cannot subscribe, and that some of the earlier indications did not promise an auspicious result. Some men were in attendance and talked whom we should have preferred would have stayed away, and the hissing of an allusion to Henry Clay by Mr. Denmore of the Kenosha Telegraph, in which he was joined by a very few others, was an impardonable exhibition of bigotry and intolerance. Yet when the convention formally assembled, and the proceedings were to go to the public with the mark of deliberation and authority; it is equally true that its action was characterised by a far better spirit and more moderation than we feared would prevail, and that its platform embodied no controverted questions or side issues which could have only divided those who agreed upon the object proposed in the call and were desirous to unite their efforts for its accomplishment. We found a more conciliating feeling among the mass of free soilers than we expected, less disposition to urge men and more to labor for measures, and to a far greater extent than we had any idea a willingness among conservative and leading whigs to unite and join in a common effort against what they regarded as a wanton invasion of northern rights and disregard of northern sentiment. Whether this feeling is to continue, and future efforts are to be wisely directed, or whether the spirit feared in the convention is to be developed hereafter, we cannot tell. We are sure, however, of this: Our own course has been dictated by what we deem the exigencies of the times demand, and seems to be justified by the prevailing whig sentiment of the state; and though not decided upon without reluctance, our stand has been deliberately taken. We feel that the issue proposed in the platform of the convention has been forced upon the north, and that there is no alternative but to accept it, or yield everything at the nod of any northern demagogue who may bid for southern votes, or that may be required by an ever-exacting local interest. We should have preferred to meet this issue in the whig ranks under a pure whig organization; we believe the whig party of the north to be true up on this question, and that it has heretofore offered the only practicable opposition to the slave power; but the action of our whig friends in this and other states points to the path we have now taken, and we follow it hoping for the best, believing that we abandon no principle, knowing we change no opinion, though we sacrifice no inconsiderable amount of feeling.

THE CHOLERA.—The country is full of exaggerated reports of the prevalence of this disease. It is indisputable that it exists in many places, and that its existence affords good reason if not for alarm, at least for prudence and discretion and the adoption of all preventive means to prevent its extension; but it is also certain that its greatest and most fatal ravages have been confined to emigrants, whose habits and circumstances have peculiarly exposed them to its attacks. The late hot weather, too, has had a predisposing effect, and will continue to have in the general health of the country, to excite apprehensions for a general visitation of the disease, if the people will avoid the well-known incentives to an attack and will promptly treat the equally well-known symptoms that precede it. In this city we have heard of but two cases, and in those there was an obvious imprudence and negligence on the part of the patients which rendered their deaths a matter of no wonder, and should excite no fear on the part of those who are prudent in their habits and attentive to their health.

As an instance of the exaggerated nature of the reports to which we have alluded we annex a statement made by the health officer of Rockford, Ills., a place where we have heard the disease prevailed with fearful mortality:

ROCKFORD, July 10, 1854.

MESSENGERS.—There has been seven deaths of cholera, since the 25th day of June.

Of these, five were Irish; nine, Swedes; and three, Americans.

The first death by cholera in this city was on the 25th of June—the person, an Irishman from Warren, and came to this city some few hours before he died. The Swedes were direct from Sweden via Chicago.

NEWTON CRAWFORD, Health Officer.

WAUKESHA PLAINDALE.—The Waukesha Chronotype has passed into the hands of A. F. Pratt and taken the name of Plaindealer. Mr. Pratt, for a few months past, has been connected with the editorial department of the Wisconsin. He represents the "Barstow and balance" portion of the "democracy" in Waukesha, and is ready for a fight at any time with his opponents, the most bitter of whom are in the "democratic" household.

ATTEMPTED RAPE.—An Irishman named Connell, has been committed to jail in Waukesha for attempting a rape on a young girl 10 years old. The old sinner is between 60 and 70.

At a meeting of the Milwaukee horticultural society, last Friday, it is reported that "since the last report on strawberries one of the most active members of the society has thoroughly tested under a variety of circumstances Newland's Mammoth Albion. The plants and fruit have been examined by a member of the committee on fruits and both unite in pronouncing it an UNMITIGATED HUMBBUG."

We cannot say from experience in this vicinity anything about the merits of the fruit grown by the plants of Mr. Newland, as we have heard of no archer who has been lucky enough to get berries, but Mr. Newland, if an honest man, was surely unfortunate in having the far larger proportion of his plants die on his hands before selling them. Out of 25 purchased by us, not more than four ever showed the first symptom of life, though carefully set according to directions, and two now survive. Some persons we know did not raise a single plant of any variety, while a few saved a very small fraction of the entire number purchased.

FAILURE OF THE BISHOPS.—The Milwaukee papers state that the reported failure of the Messrs. Bishop in consequence of the Schuyler operation is unfounded, and that their loss will not exceed $20,000. The report of their failure arose from their suffering certain paper to be printed. The Sentinel says a thorough examination shows them to stand with better credit than ever, and liberal offers of discount have been made to them by the best New York banks. The money for the monthly estimates of the Lake Shore road has arrived, and is ready to-day to be paid out.

With regard to the Watertown railroad, on which the Bishops are also contractors, of course this intelligence is also favorable. How far the railroad company may be the losers by any securities placed in Schuyler's hands for negotiation remains to be seen. Several of its officers are now in New York, and we shall learn the truth soon.

The N. Y. Herald says that there is a large amount of bonds of the Illinois Central railroad company afloat with the October coupon cut off. This may be all right, but it looks very strange. It is given rise to suspicions that they have not been legally or properly issued. Why the October coupon should be cut off so many months before maturity, is a mystery we should like to see explained.

A committee of this company who have examined into the amount of indebtedness from the Messrs. Schuylers to the company report that they find the total amount to be $102,427.08, and that the company received, and now hold collateral securities, which the committee consider amply sufficient, being satisfied on definite inquiry that they would any day sell for more money than they are pledged for.

WATER CURE JOURNAL.—This excellent publication commences its eighteenth volume, with the present number. There are few monthlies conducted with more ability than this, and none that more forcibly advocate the peculiar system for which it is principally designed. In its mechanical execution it is a model of perfect typography. The price per copy is $1: five copies, $4; ten copies, $7, and twenty copies, $10. Address Fowles and Wells, 308 Broadway, New York.

The Phenological Journal commences its twentieth volume also this month, and the same may be said of it as above. It is afforded at the same price as the Water Cure Journal, and may be had by addressing the same publishers.

Ex-senator Clemens (of Florida), has addressed a letter to Mr. Letcher of Va., saying he is the attorney for Samuel Colt, and that he desires to appear as a witness before the committee of the house, and that the examination should be thorough into the influences employed to carry through measures of legislation. But he hopes the inquiry will be confined to Col. Colt's application for the extension of his patent, for if they should be made into the influences used to carry the Nebraska bill, it would cause great delay, which might affect Col. Colt's interest. This allusion to Nebraska is the unkindest cut of all.—Washington cor. N. Y. Tribune.

Mr. Letcher received another home motion during a discussion in the house upon his motion for the appointment of a committee to investigate this matter of the Colt patent. Some one suggested to him that he embody a proposition to investigate whether members had been bribed to oppose any bills pending before the house. As some of the Milwaukee railroad lobby are again in Washington, it might have been thought the testimony, one way or the other, was ready at hand.

Edwin Crosswell has formally withdrawn from the Albany Argus, and is succeeded by Gideon J. Tucker, who has been for some time associated with Sherman Crosswell in the editorial department. Of late years the elder Crosswell has written but little for the paper, having been connected with a steamship line in New York.

MINNESOTA RAILROAD LAND BILL.—The first section of the Minnesota railroad land bill fixes the initial, or commencing point of the road to be constructed from the state line to St. Paul and lake Superior, between ranges nine and seventeen. It is the same bill laid on the table in the early part of the session in the house of representatives, and was "lifted" by being reported as a new bill.

The grand jury of the criminal court, at Cincinnati, have found a true bill of indictment against Peter Kröger, a catholic priest, for an attempt to commit a rape on the person of a young German girl, while at the confessional.

The land distribution bill of Mr. Bennett was taken up in the house of representatives on the 11th inst., and postponed till next December.

THE BOSTON FAILURE.—The Boston papers report the failure there of Willis & Co., who were engaged in the California trade, as well as in railroad speculations. The liabilities of the firm are very large, from the extensive business which they have followed, being reported the largest exchange brokers in that city.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.—The secretary of state gives official notice of the election of the various state officers to be elected this fall, and if the amendments to the constitution to be submitted to the people. As a matter of general interest we publish the latter:

Amend section 4 of article 4, as to read as follows: "The members of assembly shall be chosen biennially, by single districts, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the several districts; such districts to be bounded by county, precincts, town or ward lines, to consist of contiguous territory and to be in as compact a form as possible."

Amend last clause of section 5 of same article, as to read as follows: "The senate districts shall be numbered in regular series. The senators chosen by the present odd numbered districts, in the year 1854, shall hold their offices until the last day of December, 1856. The senators chosen by the present even numbered districts, in the year 1855, shall hold their offices until the last day of December, 1858. Thereafter senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, but the legislature at any new apportionment, shall so classify the senators to be elected from any additional senate district, which may be formed, that the term of office of all senators elected from even numbered districts shall expire at the same time, and the term of office of all those elected from odd numbered districts shall expire at the same time."

Amend section eleven as to read as follows: "The legislature shall meet at the seat of government once in two years, and not often unless convened by the governor."

Each elector may vote for or against the first of the above named amendments by depositing a ballot containing the following words: "For amendment to section four," and "against amendment to section four," and for or against the second of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words, "for amendment to section five," and "against amendment to section five," and for or against the third of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words "for amendment to section eleven," and "against amendment to section eleven." The votes given by any elector for or against any or all of said amendments shall be on one ballot, and to be deposited in a separate box prepared for the purpose. The qualification of the electors to be the same, and the votes canvassed and returned in the same manner as in elections for state officers.

THE STATE PRINTING.—The secretary of state some days since awarded the contract for the public printing for two years from the 1st of January next, to James Denmore, of the Kenosha Telegraph, as the lowest bidder. From that award Mr. Brown of the Madison Democrat has appealed to the board of state officers; the governor, attorney-general and the treasurer. The appeal was heard Friday last, but the decision has not yet been made.

NEW HAVEN, July 11th.

EXECUTION OF JENNINGS.—Michael Jennings, who murdered Mrs. Bradley, of North Haven, on the 24th of July, 1853, was hung this morning. He was brought out upon the scaffold at about ten minutes past ten, accompanied by two Roman Catholic priests. He seemed to be possessed of good spirits until they and the officers took leave of him, when he seemed much affected and cried.

The cap was drawn down over his face and his legs were tied at about twenty minutes past ten, when the sheriff, going down the scaffold steps, put his foot on the last stair. The trapdoor fell and the murderer was deprived of life.

After having hung twenty minutes, he was pronounced to be dead by the physicians, and the body was then taken down. He made no confession unless to the priest, but asserted his innocence to the last. The gallows upon which he was hung was the same as was used in executing Foote, McCaffrey and others.

The jail yard, in which the execution took place, was very much crowded with spectators. Outside three or four hundred persons were assembled, but were prevented from getting near the gallows by the National Blues and the Grays, who were on duty throughout the proceedings. Among the crowd on the outside were a large number of women, some of whom attempted to pass inside the ground but were prevented.

Of Boston, Mass., Chartered in 1843. Capital and accumulation, $650,000.

THIS Company is one of the oldest, and among the most prudent and successfully conducted in the country. The primary object in conducting its business has been to provide perfect security under all conceivable circumstances, for the payment of its losses under its policies, and to return to the insured a surplus at stated periods, and strict economy is observed.

Every insured person is a member of the company and shares in the profits of the business, and is subject to no liability or assessments beyond his premium.

The directors are required to be pecuniarily interested in the company, and they give it their personal attention; and bonds of sufficient security are given by them to the policyholders for the faithful discharge of their duties.

Insurance may be effected for the benefit of the wife, which is secured to her by law beyond the reach of a husband's creditors; and creditors may insure the lives of their debtors.

Highly Important to Farmers.

THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL.

LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, (belonging to farmers,) household furniture, grain and stock, etc., from one to five years, at lower rates than most other responsible companies. All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmer to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses upon your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, barns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by leaving them alone.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

THEFT.—A man named Lepore was taken up Friday afternoon for stealing money at the American House. He was committed in default of bail. On Saturday he was tried before Justice Bates and fined $20. In default of payment he was again committed to jail, and a search of his dwelling house resulted in finding a somewhat general assortment of articles undoubtedly stolen.

STATE FAIR.—The Waukesha Plaindealer says "it is rumored that the next fair of the State Agricultural Society is to be held at Janesville, instead of Milwaukee, on account of the hotel-keepers refusing to entertain their guests upon that occasion at the usual prices charged."

We know nothing of any such decision, though we have heard complaints of the nature alluded to.

We find the following in a report of the proceedings in the supreme court on the 11th inst. For a daily paper, and these proceedings occurring but forty miles from Janesville, their announcement six days after their occurrence may seem unusual despatch, but when it is recollected what admirable mail facilities we are at present enjoying, any wonder on the subject will cease.

In case of Wm. M. Tallman appellee vs. Wm. Truett et al. appellants, on appeal from Rock circuit court, a motion was made by J. R. Bennett for appellants, to vacate the order of dismissal of a previous day of the term, and to reinstate cause. The motion was argued by Bennett and Orton for appellants, and J. A. Sleeper for appellee, and allowed on payment of $15 to solicitor of appellee and the costs of the dismissal and of this motion.

A MODEL ASSESSOR.—Mr. D. C. Bush, the corporation assessor of the village of Madison, has assessed the value of the property of that village at one million, two hundred and forty thousand dollars! Mr. Bush declares that he took an oath to assess all property at its true value, and he has done so to the best of his judgment. If this rule could be uniform throughout the state, many evils connected with our present mode of assessment would be avoided.

AGAIN &amp; AGAIN

THE BOSTON STORE.

Let the Horn be Blown!
"Sound the loud trumpet o'er land and o'er sea,"
WHEELLOCK'S trumpet, and all shall be.

THIS is the middle of the nineteenth century, the first half of which has produced more change and upward movement than any fifty years of our Christian Era.

The great controlling power of this age is its commerce—indeed, this may be truly called the commercial age.

It has been well said by an ancient writer that "Man wants but little here below," and to supply those wants

WHEELLOCK
Announces to every people and every tongue, to both sexes and all parties, to all factions of all gauges, that finding his old store unprofitable

TOO SMALL!
He has been compelled, in order to be able to supply the immense call for goods at his establishment, to

Double the capacity of his Store Rooms!
Having purchased this spring, for this market, to be sold this season,

$39,007 00 Worth of Goods!
But who can expect to read in the brief space of one life all the articles which are to be found in this

BOSTON STORE CONTAINS.
Indeed, history must first give the searcher of knowledge an accurate idea of its immense

STOCK OF SUMMER GOODS,
His inimitable selection of

Fancy Dress Goods!
He has over

10,000 Yards of Silk Barges, of every style, and price, and it is with no great difficulty that the fair ladies can select

FROM THE ONE THOUSAND PIECES,
Of all patterns and ranging in price from SIX CENTS Per Yard to Twenty Dollars, such dresses as will add to their exquisite beauty, though it may be as general thing, as be difficult to add to that beauty as it is to add to the refined gold, paint the lily, or add perfume to the violet.

It must not be inferred that we offer only these and the many other articles for outer apparel, such as Chambray and Foulard Silks, but all manner of

are on change, so that every one may be entirely accommodated with every article of female apparel—Eved French red foxed Gaiters,

Ladies' Embroidered Boots, Embroidered sewed Congress Boots,
LADIES' MOROCCO POLKAS,
And all the articles manufactured of the best styles—So that of that nature, so far as articles which adorn La Belle sex are concerned, it may be truly said

"CUSTOM cannot state the infinite variety."

While the Boston Store has made provision to protect the feet, it can also boast that it has all sorts of

by which hands can be protected and retain

"The white wonder of fair Juliet's hand."

And in taking leave of those of whom it is no exaggeration to say

"Heaven's kiss, best gift to man," the Nonpareils of beauty, the Paragons of perfection, Mr. Wheelock assures his fair customers that his assistance and advice are cheerfully at their service, and that he will never in imitation of many of our contemporaries attempt to accomplish that object by equivocation, misrepresentation, exaggeration, tergiversation, fabrication, or by direct lying.

And now to the wants of the

COARSE-HAND SEX.
Mr. Wheelock has every kind of material to make those articles of dress that give to man his individuality.

PANTALOONS,
CALF "BEWTS," COOW HIDE DO, GAZELLE, do., PATENT LEATHER DO, GIRAFFE do.,

HATS
That fit every head from the Websterian brow to the country politician's scone, from the size of caput of him who is closely shorn after the Hibernian fashion to that of him who wears the well-pomaded, ambrosial-tinted, elongated Hyperion curls.

And to the spectator who buys to sell again,

The Boston Store
Can, at lower rates of usance than any other establishment west of the Alleghany mountains, furnish that class of exchanges so that riches will fill their pockets as water fills the sea. And to them we offer

DOMESTIC GLASSWARE, WORSTED,
Pocket Handkerchiefs, Instants, Cotton Yarn, Ready-made Vests, Ground Pepper, Flannels, Looking Glasses, Boots, Made Over Coats, Pants, Raincoats, Flat Irons and Cotton-Battings, Lanterns, Satchels, which the whining school-boy with shining morning face bears on his arm, Chests, Norwegian Bandboxes and Hair Trunks, Tea, Tobacco and Wicking.

In the

CROCKERY
Line may be found the BENNINGTON, the PARIAN and the LAVA Manufacture, Pitchers for milk or water, Bed Pans for males or females, Pots for tea or chamber purposes, Spittoons, Bowls for washing, for bread and milk, or sugar, Canisters, children's Toys and Flower Pots, MAINE LIQUOR LAW VOLUMES and Lager Beer Mugs.

And in fine, the proprietor of this establishment can with all confidence assure those who have been in the habit of trading at Janesville that although they have

"Often seen corruption boil and bubble till 'T o'erturn the ale,"
they will find that the representations which shall be made to them by that proprietor or his clerks will not be "Stand like forlorn in a Barber shop,
More in mock than mark."

The Hunters' Last Bullet.

BY CAPT. A. T. MAXWELL, U. S. A.

For nearly ten miles along the northwest base of the ridge our flight had continued; the herd of buffaloes with our companions had long since disappeared in the northern bend, the Crows had dropped off one after another, until not more than a dozen beside those on the ridge continued the race, and those were mostly a mile or more behind, and losing ground every moment.

But there were seven of the warriors on whom, in all that desperate race, we had not gained a single inch.

Four of these were of the party of the ridge, while the other three were of those who had followed along the plain.

"Look ye here, lieutenant—this won't never answer," said old Judah, suddenly reining in his horse, and at the same moment grasping the bridle rein of mine, and almost flinging him back upon his haunches—

"I tell you, sir, we must drill a hole or two in them chaps' skulls, or they'll cut us off, sartain sure, before we can get across the ridge." Now my advice is, lieutenant, that you take these rascals on the plain in hand, while I look after them other beggars on the hill side.

"But listen, youngster—you must mind that the cunning devils don't dodge your bullets.—They'll expect you to aim at their heads and then at the flash of your piece, they'll fling themselves flat along their horse's neck, or it may be, drop right alongside the animal, so that your bullet'll go whistling by without touching nothing. So you see you must aim just a few inches above the horse's withers, and ten to one you'll bore a hole square in the top of Mr. Crow's head."

The last word had scarcely passed the lips of my companion, when I followed his advice to the letter, by singling out the foremost Indian, and drawing a "bee" on him, or rather his horse, just clear of his shoulders. I observed that at the flash of my rifle, every one of the Indians fell prostrate on the necks of their horses, with their heads not higher than those of the animal.

My customer was mistaken that time, however, for a moment after I fired he sprang bolt upright, dropped his rifle, and after flinging his arms about him in the most violent manner for a few breaths, he toppled over backwards and fell heavily to the ground.

That's the fashion to count up our takes on the bloody red thieves, lieutenant," observed old Judah in a tone of exultation, as the sharp crack of his rifle followed mine, and one of the side hill warriors plunged headlong from his saddle—"That's the way to take 'em, lad. Both them chaps got our bits of lead through their brains—'if it so be these infernal skunks have got any brains."

"They're cunning devils though, and our next bullet won't wing 'em in that way. No, no, you hold on your fire till you see how—no, hang it, as soon as you're ready, we'll both fire together—but this time aim about four feet from the horse's back—just about their heads as they sit in their usual way. What say—are you ready?"

"Aye, Judah, all ready."

"Well, blaze away—Fire!"

At the simultaneous flashes of our rifles, the five surviving Indians leaped to their feet on the backs of their horses, and then as quick as thought two of them dropped their weapons, clapped their hands to their breasts and plunged headlong forward over their horse's head to the ground.

"Pooled again!" shouted the hunter in an exultant tone. "Lieutenant, there's not many of these red western niggers that's got cunning enough to play rifle and tomahawk with old Judah Gaily."

"But look ye here—we may venture to try the crossing of the ridge now," and within fifteen minutes we were dashing up the ascent crossing the Indians course at right angles, not sixty yards distant, but as there was only three of them left, we had little apprehension on their account, having made up our minds to pick off the three fool hardy fellows before we gained the summit of the ridge, and then ride back to the steamer at leisure.

We were half way up the hill, with our rifles loaded, and just about to rein up for another charge at the Indians, when I made the discovery that somehow in dashing through the brushwood, the hammer of my rifle had got caught and would not fire, so the gun was useless.

Almost at the same moment that I discovered the accident of my rifle, an exclamation of despair from the lips of my companion fell upon my ears, and as soon as he could speak coherently, I learned that he had met with an accident little less serious than mine, inasmuch as he had lost his bullet pouch somewhere below us, and that he was with only a single bullet, and that in his gun.

For a few moments the stalwart, hard featured old hunter fairly foamed at the mouth like a mad dog and roared in his mad excitement.—But he soon quieted down, and after trying my bullets, and finding them considerably too large for his rifle, he spoke to me calmly as he had during the day done.

"This is bad, lieutenant—mighty bad. But we must make the best we can of it, and trust to Providence and our horses' bottom.—But look ye here, lad!" he sung out as we gained the crest of the ridge—"Two of our red devils are better mounted than we are.—And with your assistance, lieutenant, I'll try and clip them two fast ones at one shot, after which we can settle the last one unless he runs away, or run away ourselves, just as we please."

Old Judah dismounted as he spoke, and giving me the bridle of his horse, which he requested me to lead down the hill-side at a smart gallop, and in a straight line as we had been going, he began looking around him for some place of concealment. His quick eye soon caught sight of a huge chestnut tree close by the side of the trail, and I urged my two horses down the slope at their best speed—which considering that the descent was at an angle of full thirty-five degrees from the plain of the horizon, was not 2.40 speed, or in the most approved style of equestrian elegance—as I went down the hill I saw old Judah crawl into the hole in the old tree, and disappear—man, rifle, hunting shirt, leggings, wolf skin cap and all.

I was half way to the bottom of the hill, when two sharp reports, and a moment later, the hissing of two bullets as they cut the air within ten inches of either side of my head, told me beyond all question, that my Indian friends—two of them certainly—meant to keep up a leaden correspondence with me at least.

A single quick glance over my shoulders, showed me the two Crows urging their horses down the steep slope at their very best speed, while, by the way they had flung their rifles across their shoulders without reloading them, I knew they had judged that my companion must have fallen from a wound received on the other side of the ridge, and as they considered me sure game, they did not deem it worth while to lose any of the distance between us, by reining in their horses to reload their rifles.

Thirty seconds might have passed after the two shots were fired, and I had almost gained level ground, when I heard an almost unearthly whoop, which I knew in a moment to come from the old hunter, and turning in my saddle, I saw the two Indians who fired at me had stopped stock still and were loading their rifles in the greatest possible hurry, while some hundred and fifty yards further up the hill, stood old Judah, just in the act of taking aim at the third savage who had raised the ridge and came sweeping down the trail with his rifle leveled at the hunter.

At the instant I was looking for the flash of my companion's rifle, the old frontiersman let fall the muzzle of his rifle, and a breath later dropped it entirely, he drew himself up to his full height, and turning towards the single Crow, he uttered a peculiar taunting whoop of defiance, which drew forth a yell of rage from the savage who came driving on at a furious speed, still covering the hunter with the muzzle of his rifle.

He was scarcely thirty yards from the old hunter, when, without checking the speed of his horse in the least, he fired. But the bullet whistled harmlessly by over the prostrate form of the wary old hunter, who, quick as thought, dropped to the earth at the flash of the Indian's rifle.

The tremendous whoop of the hunter had started the two Crows beneath him, and with their half loaded rifles they sat there apparently bewildered and half stupefied at the sudden appearance of old Judah now in the rear, while the single warrior came thundering along down the hill side, his horse unmanageable, his rifle unloaded, and himself, accustomed to rough riding scarcely able to maintain his seat in his wild plunging course down that rugged step.

Almost before one could have counted ten, the horse had borne his rider to the spot where the hunter now no longer prostrate, but standing in the path, grasping in his right hand a fragment of rock, that a giant might have failed to wield, while his left was outstretched, as if to the next breath revealed his whole intention; for as the horse came dashing on, the veteran hunter grasped him by the nostrils with such a grip, that in an instant the frightened mustang was hung quivering back upon his haunches, while the Crow was flung violently to the earth, which he had barely touched when down came the ponderous rock upon his naked head, mangling and crushing his face and skull out of the very shape of humanity. Scarcely had the rock left his hand, when old Judah snatched his rifle from the ground, leaped upon the back of the Indian's horse, and with another whoop dashed right on down the steep pathway towards the two remaining Crows, who, as if panic-stricken at the death of their comrade, and the strange stratagem of the old hunter, turned and fled for life, while the cause of their terror came yelling and whooping on in swift pursuit.

When the Crows passed me they were so near and wholly defenceless that I could easily have brought down either or both of their horses with the butt of my crippled rifle. But I was so absorbed by the interest of the singular race that I scarcely noticed the fugitives, permitting them to pass by unmolested.

As old Judah drew up with me, I observed that he was guiding his horse from side to side as he dashed along the trail, holding the side reins within his teeth, while he every few seconds poised his rifle in an instant and then lowered the muzzle again, until I comprehended that his intention was to get them in range so as to cover them both with his rifle.

He had passed me some thirty yards and the Crows were some fifty more in advance of him, when a sudden turn in the trail brought them in a line, and in less than three seconds the bullet in old Judah's rifle sped on its mission of death.

Striking the nearest Indian in the back of the neck, at the junction with the spine, it passed out through his throat and hit the other who must have turned his head on the instant, as the bullet hit him in the right eye, which it tore from its socket, and then buried itself in his brain.

Thirty minutes later, we were crossing away across the prairie towards the steamer, with three extra horses, the same number of rifles, and several articles of Crow property, which was of small value except as trophies of victory.

On the following day we picked up the remainder of our party, and in less than an hour thereafter, we were off on another buffalo hunt.

ALBANY, July 11th.

The business portion of Coxsack village, about 30 miles south of Albany, on the Hudson river, was entirely destroyed by fire last night. Forty buildings were totally destroyed, including three hotels and the post office. Loss estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000.

The whole of the lower landing was burned down with the exception of a dry goods store, kept by a Mr. Lasher. The building saved was fire proof. Some twenty-five houses were burned to the ground.

NEW YORK, July 7th.

Robert Schuyler was well known in Boston, doubtless from his extensive business relations, his family connections, and the circumstances of his collegiate education. He was graduated at Harvard University in 1817, in a class remarkable for the talent of its members, as it included among others, George Bancroft, S. A. Elliot, Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tving, (of St. George's Church, N. Y.) and Cal b Cushing. Stephen Schuyler was one of the class at Cambridge in 1820. These gentlemen are grandsons of General Schuyler, of revolutionary fame, the nephews of Alexander Hamilton. Their father married for his second wife the daughter of a distinguished physician of eastern Massachusetts, and their relatives are well known in financial and literary circles in Boston.—Correspondence of Boston Transcript.

UNITED STATES COURT.—This court adjourned this forenoon, having been in session ten days. Over one hundred causes were disposed of; among those were two causes for infringement of a patent right. William T. Sterling was convicted of embezzling letters from his post office and sentenced to Wauwun for ten years. John Drake pleaded guilty to the indictment against him for stealing letters from U. S. mail and sentenced to 1 year imprisonment. Henry Wentworth was acquitted of the charge of counterfeiting coin, and the jury was not able to agree as to Wm. Wentworth; Henry is again arrested for passing counterfeit coin. These and the other cases pending are for trial at a special term to be held at Milwaukee on the second Monday of November next.

A special term for law and chancery business is ordered to commence at Milwaukee on the first Monday of September next.—Madison Argus 13th.

The Louisville Courier says that one of the jurors in the Ward trial has been expelled from the church to which he belonged in Elizabethtown, for having sworn that he had formed no opinion in that case, when it was proved that he had repeatedly expressed an opinion. Other evidence was also elicited which will be laid before the grand jury.

Charles T. Shelton, of New York, denies that he is a defaulter to the Empire stone dressing company, and he states that it is more than a year since he resigned the presidency, when his accounts were all right.

The Daily Gazette.

MONDAY MORNING, JULY 17, 1854.

MADISON CONVENTION.—We published Saturday morning a portion of the proceedings of this convention, and ought to have had the full official report for to-day's paper; but the want of a daily mail with Madison will throw over its publication till to-morrow.

It will be nothing new to the readers of the Gazette to be told that we viewed that convention with distrust—that we feared its objects were more the exaltation of individuals than the advancement of a principle, and that its controlling spirit would be such that we could have no sympathy and would have no connection with it. This regarding it, and with no disposition to readily change a pre-conceived opinion of its character, one of the editors attended it to see for himself and trust no man's report concerning it. It is true that some things were said to which we cannot subscribe, and that some of the earlier indications did not promise an auspicious result. Some men were in attendance and talked whom we should have preferred would have stayed away, and the hissing of an allusion to Henry Clay by Mr. Densmore of the Kenosha Telegraph, in which he was joined by a very few others, was an unpardonable exhibition of bigotry and intolerance. Yet when the convention formally assembled, and the proceedings were to go to the public with the mark of deliberation and authority; it is equally true that its action was characterized by a far better spirit and more moderation than we feared would prevail, and that its platform embodied no controverted questions or side issues which could have only divided those who agreed upon the object proposed in the call and were desirous to unite their efforts for its accomplishment. We found a more conciliating feeling among the mass of free soilers than we expected, less disposition to urge men and more to labor for measures, and to a far greater extent than we had any idea a willingness among conservative and leading whigs to unite again in a common effort against what they regarded as a wanton invasion of northern rights and disregard of northern sentiment. Whether the feeling is to continue, and future efforts are to be wisely directed, or whether the spirit fared in the convention is to be developed hereafter, we cannot tell. We are sure, however, of this: Our own course has been dictated by what we deem the exigencies of the times demand, and seems to be justified by the prevailing whig sentiment of the state; and though not decided upon without reluctance, our stand has been deliberately taken. We feel that the issue proposed in the platform of the convention has been forced upon the north, and that there is no alternative but to accept it, or yield everything at the neck of any northern demagogues who may bid for southern votes, or that may be required by an ever-exacting local interest. We should have preferred to meet this issue in the whig ranks under a pure whig organization; we believe the whig party of the north to be true on this question, and that it has heretofore offered the only practicable opposition to the slave power; but the action of our whig friends in this and other states points to the path we have now taken, and we follow it hoping for the best, believing that we abandon no principle, knowing we change no opinion, though we sacrifice no inconsiderable amount of feeling.

THE CHOLERA.—The country is full of exaggerated reports of the prevalence of this disease. It is indisputable that it exists in many places, and that its existence affords good reason if not for alarm, at least for prudence and discretion and the adoption of all preventive means to prevent its extension; but it is also certain that its greatest and most fatal ravages have been confined to emigrants, whose habits and circumstances have peculiarly exposed them to its attacks. The late hot weather, too, has had a predisposing effect, and, in consequence, the general health of the country, to excite apprehensions for a general visitation of the disease, if the people will avoid the well-known incentives to an attack and will promptly treat the equally well-known symptoms that precede it. In this city we have heard of but two cases, and in those there was an obvious imprudence and negligence on the part of the patients which rendered their deaths a matter of no wonder, and should excite no fear on the part of those who are prudent in their habits and attentive to their health.

As an instance of the exaggerated nature of the reports to which we have alluded we annex a statement made by the health officer of Rockford, Ills., a place where we have heard the disease prevailed with fearful mortality:

ROCKFORD, July 10, 1854.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—There has been seven deaths of cholera, since the 25th day of June. Of these, five were Irish; nine, Swedes; and three, Americans.

The first death by cholera in this city was on the 25th of June—the person, an Irishman from Warren, and came to this city some few hours before he died. The Swedes were direct from Sweden via Chicago.

NEWTON CRAWFORD, Health Officer.

WAUKESHA PLAINDEALER.—The Waukesha Chronotype has passed into the hands of A. F. Pratt and taken the name of Plaindealer. Mr. Pratt, for a few months past, has been connected with the editorial department of the Wisconsin. He represents the "Barstow and balance" portion of the "democracy" in Waukesha, and is ready for a fight at any time with his opponents, the most bitter of whom are in the "democratic" household.

ATTEMPTED RAPE.—An Irishman named Connel, has been committed to jail in Waukesha for attempting a rape on a young girl 10 years old. The old sinner is between 60 and 70.

At a meeting of the Milwaukee horticultural society, last Friday, it is reported that "since the last report on strawberries one of the most active members of the society has thoroughly tested under a variety of circumstances Newland's Mammoth Alpine. The plants and fruit have been examining by a member of the committee on fruits and both unite in pronouncing it an UMITIGATED HUMBURG."

We cannot say from experience in this vicinity anything about the merits of the fruit grown by the plants sent by Mr. Newland, as we have heard of no rebother who has been lucky enough to get berries, but Mr. Newland, if an honest man, was surely unfortunate in having the far larger proportion of his plants die on his hands before selling them. Out of 25 purchased by us, more than four ever showed the first system of life, though carefully set according to directions, and but two now survive. Some here we know did not raise a single plant any variety, while a few saved a very small fraction of the entire number purchased.

FAILURE OF THE BISHOPS.—The Milwaukee papers say that the reported failure of the Messrs. Bishop in consequence of the Schuyler operation is unfounded, and that their loss will not exceed $20,000. The report of their failure also from their suffering certain paper to be tested. The Sentinel says a thorough examination shows them to stand with better credit than ever, and liberal offers of discount have been made to them by the best New York banks. The money for the monthly estimates of the Lake Shore road has arrived, and is ready to-day to be paid out.

With regard to the Watertown railroad, on which the Bishops are also contractors, of course this intelligence is also favorable. How far the railroad company may be the losers by any securities placed in Schuyler's hands for negotiation remains to be seen. Several of its officers are now in New York, and we shall learn the truth soon.

The N. Y. Herald says that there is a large amount of bonds of the Illinois Central railroad company afloat with the October coupon cut off. This may be all right, but it looks very strange. It has given rise to suspicions that they have not been legally or properly issued. Why the October coupon should be cut off so many months before maturity, is a mystery we should like to see explained.

A committee of this company who have examined into the amount of indebtedness from the Messrs. Schuylers to the company report that they find the total amount to be $102,427.08, and that the company received, and now hold collateral securities, which the committee consider amply sufficient, being satisfied on definite inquiry that they would any day sell for more money than they are pledged for.

WATER CURE JOURNAL.—This excellent publication commences its eighteenth volume, with the present number. There are few monthlies conducted with more ability than this, and none that more forcibly advocate the peculiar system for which it is principally designed. In its mechanical execution it is a model of perfect typography. The price per copy is $1: five copies, $4; ten copies, $7, and twenty copies, $10. Address Fowlers and Wells, 308 Broadway, New York.

The Phenological Journal commences its twentieth volume also this month, and the same may be said of it as above. It is afforded at the same price as the Water Cure Journal, and may be had by addressing the same publishers.

Ex-senator Clemens (of Florida,) has addressed a letter to Mr. Letcher of Va., saying he is the attorney for Samuel Colt, and that he desires to appear as a witness before the committee of the house, and that the examination should be thorough into the influences employed to carry through measures of legislation. But he hopes the inquiry will be confined to Col. Colt's application for the extension of his patent, for if they should be made into the influences used to carry the Nebraska bill, it would cause great delay, which might affect Col. Colt's interest. This allusion to Nebraska is the unkindest cut of all.—Washington Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

Mr. Letcher received another home shot during a discussion in the house upon his motion for the appointment of a committee to investigate this matter of the Colt patent. Some one suggested to him that he embody a proposition to investigate whether members had been bribed to oppose any bills pending before the house. As some of the Milwaukee railroad lobby are again in Washington, it might have been thought the testimony, one way or the other, was ready at hand.

Edwin Crosswell has formally withdrawn from the Albany Argus, and is succeeded by Gideon J. Tucker, who has been for some time associated with Sherman Crosswell in the editorial department. Of late years the elder Crosswell has written but little for the paper, having been connected with a steamship line in New York.

MINNESOTA RAILROAD LAND BILL.—The first section of the Minnesota railroad land bill fixes the initial, or commencing point of the road to be constructed from the state line to St. Paul and lake Superior, between ranges nine and seventeen. It is the same bill laid on the table in the early part of the session in the house of representatives, and was "lifted" by being reported as a new bill.

The grand jury of the criminal court, at Cincinnati, have found a true bill of indictment against Peter Kroger, a catholic priest, for an attempt to commit a rape on the person of a young German girl, while at the confessional.

The land distribution bill of Mr. Bennett was taken up in the house of representatives on the 11th inst, and postponed till next December.

THE BOSTON FAILURE.—The Boston papers report the failure there of Willis & Co., who were engaged in the California trade, as well as in railroad speculations. The liabilities of the firm are very large, from the extensive business which they have followed, being reported the largest exchange brokers in that city.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.—The secretary of state gives official notice of the election of the various state officers to be elected this fall, and if the amendments to the constitution to be submitted to the people. As a matter of general interest we publish the latter:

Amend section 4 of article 4, as to read as follows: "The members of assembly shall be chosen biennially, by single districts, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the several districts; such districts to be bounded by county, precincts, town or ward lines, to consist of contiguous territory and to be in as compact a form as possible."

Amend last clause of section 5 of same article, as to read as follows: "The senate districts shall be numbered in regular series. The senators chosen by the present odd numbered districts, in the year 1854, shall hold their offices until the last day of December, 1856. The senators chosen by the present even numbered districts, in the year 1856, shall hold their offices until the last day of December, 1858. Thereafter senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, but the legislature at any new apportionment, shall so classify the senators to be elected from any additional senate district, which may be formed, that the term of office of all senators elected from even numbered districts shall expire at the same time, and the term of office of all those elected from odd numbered districts shall expire at the same time."

Amend section eleven as to read as follows: "The legislature shall meet at the seat of government once in two years, and not often unless convened by the governor."

Each elector may vote for or against the first of the above named amendments by depositing a ballot containing the following words: "For amendment to section four," and "against amendment to section four," and for or against the second of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words, "for amendment to section five," or "against amendment to section five," and for or against the third of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words "for amendment to section eleven," or "against amendment to section eleven." The votes given by any elector for or against any or all of said amendments shall be on one ballot, and to be deposited in a separate box prepared for the purpose. The qualification of the electors to be the same, and the votes canvassed and returned in the same manner as in elections for state officers.

THE STATE PRINTING.—The secretary of state some days since awarded the contract for the public printing for two years from the 1st of January next, to James Densmore, of the Kenosha Telegraph, as the lowest bidder. From that award Mr. Brown of the Madison Democrat has appealed to the board of state officers; the governor, attorney-general and the treasurer.—The appeal was heard Friday last, but the decision has not yet been made.

NEW HAYES, July 11th. EXECUTION OF JENNINGS.—Michael Jennings, who murdered Mrs. Bradley, of North Haven, on the 24th of July, 1853, was hung this morning. He was brought out upon the scaffold at about ten minutes past ten, accompanied by two Roman Catholic priests. He seemed to be possessed of good spirits until they and the officers took leave of him, when he seemed much affected and cried.

The cap was drawn down over his face and his legs were tied about twenty minutes past ten, when the sheriff, going down the scaffold steps, put his foot on the last stair. The trap-door fell and the murderer was deprived of life.

After having hung twenty minutes, he was pronounced to be dead by the physicians, and the body was then taken down. He made no confession unless to the priest, but asserted his innocence to the last. The gallows upon which he was hung was the same as was used in executing Foote, McCaffrey and others.

The jail yard, in which the execution took place, was very much crowded with spectators. Outside three or four hundred persons were assembled, but were prevented from getting near the gallows by the National Blues and the Grays, who were on duty throughout the proceedings. Among the crowd on the outside were a large number of women, some of whom attempted to pass inside the ground but were prevented.

The Hunter's Last Bullet.

BY CAPT. A. T. MAXWELL, U. S. A.

For nearly ten miles along the northwest base of the ridge our flight had continued; the herd of buffaloes with our companions had long since disappeared in the northern bend, the Crows had dropped off one after another, until not more than a dozen beside those on the ridge continued the race, and those were mostly a mile or more behind, and losing ground every moment.

But there were seven of the warriors on whom, in all that desperate race, we had not gained a single inch.

Four of these were of the party of the ridge, while the other three were of those who had followed along the plain.

"Look ye here, lieutenant—this won't never answer," said old Judah, suddenly reining in his horse, and at the same moment grasping the bridle rein of mine, and almost flinging him back upon his haunches—

"I tell you, sir, we must drill a hole or two in them claps' skulls, or they'll cut us off, sartain sure, before we can get across the ridge. Now my advice is, lieutenant, that you take these rascals on the prairie in hand, while I look after them beggars on the hill side."

"But listen, youngster—you must mind that the cunning devils don't dodge your bullets. They'll expect you to aim at their heads and then at the flash of your piece, they'll fling themselves along their horse's neck, or it may be, drop right alongside the animal, so that your bullet'll go whistling by without touching nothing. So you see you must aim just a few inches above the horse's withers, and ten to one you'll bore a hole square in the top of Mr. Crow's head."

The last word had scarcely passed the lips of my companion, when I followed his advice to the letter, by singling out the foremost Indian, and drawing a "bee" on him, or rather his horse, just clear of his shoulders. I observed that at the flash of my rifle, every one of the Indians fell prostrate on the necks of their horses, with their heads not higher than those of the animal.

My customer was mistaken that time, however, for a moment after I fired he sprang bolt upright, dropped his rifle, and after flinging his arms about him in the most violent manner for a few breaths, he toppled over backwards and fell heavily to the ground.

"That's the fashion to count up our takes on the bloody red thieves, lieutenant," observed old Judah in a tone of exultation, as the sharp crack of his rifle followed mine, and one of the side hill warriors plunged headlong from his saddle—

"That's the way to take 'em, lad. Both them chaps got our bits of lead between their brains—if it so be these infernal skunks have got any brains."

"They're cunning devils though, and our next bullet won't wing 'em in that way. No, no, you hold on your fire till you see how—no, hang it, as soon as you're ready, we'll both fire together—but this time aim about four feet from the horse's back—just about their heads as they sit in their usual way. What say—are you ready?"

"Aye, Judah, all ready."

"Well, blaze away—Fire!"

At the simultaneous flashes of our rifles, the five surviving Indians leaped to their feet on the backs of their horses, and then as quick as thought two of them dropped: their weapons, clapped their hands to their breasts and plunged headlong forward over their horse's head to the ground.

"Poiled again!" shouted the hunter in an exultant tone.

"Lieutenant, there's not many of these red western niggers that got cunning enough to play rifle and tomahawk with old Judah Galahy."

"But look ye here—we may venture to try the crossing of the ridge now," and within fifteen minutes we were dashing up the ascent crossing the Indians course at right angles, not sixty yards distant, but as there was only three of them left, we had but little apprehension on their account; having made up our minds to pick off the three fool hardy fellows before we gained the summit of the ridge, and then ride back to the steamer at leisure.

We were half way up the hill, with our rifles loaded, and just about to rein up for another pop at the Indians, when I made the discovery that somehow in dashing through the brushwood, the hammer of my rifle had got caught and rendered entirely off, so the gun was useless.

Almost at the same moment that I discovered the accident of my rifle, an exclamation of despair from the lips of my companion fell upon my ears, and as soon as he could speak coherently, I learned that he had met with an accident little less serious than mine, inasmuch as he had lost his bullet pouch somewhere below us, and that he was with only a single bullet, and that in his gun.

For a few moments the stalwart, hard featured old hunter fairly foamed at the mouth like a mad dog and roared in his mad excitement. But he soon quieted down, and after trying my bullets, and finding them considerably too large for his rifle, he spoke to me calmly as he had during the day done.

"This is bad, lieutenant—mighty bad. But we must make the best way we can of it, and trust to Providence and our horses' bottom. But look ye here, lad!" he sang out as we gained the crest of the ridge—"two of our red devils are better mounted than we are. And with your assistance, lieutenant, I'll try and clip them two fast ones at one shot, after which we can settle the last one unless he runs away, or run away ourselves, just as we please."

Old Judah dismounted as he spoke, and giving me the bridle of his horse, which he requested me to lead down the hill-side at a smart gallop, and in a straight line as we had been going, he began looking around him for some place of concealment. His quick eye soon caught sight of a huge chestnut tree close by the side of the trail, and I urged my two horses down the slope at their best speed—which considering that the descent was at an angle of full thirty-five degrees from the plain of the horizon, was not 2.40 speed, or in the most approved style of equestrian elegance—as I went down the hill I saw old Judah crawl into the hole in the old tree, and disappear—man, rifle, hunting shirt, leggings, wolf skin cap and all.

I was half way to the bottom of the hill, when two sharp reports, and a moment later, the hissing of two bullets as they cut the air within ten inches of either side of my head, told me beyond all question, that my Indian friends—two of them certainly—meant to keep up a leaden correspondence with me at least.

A single quick glance over my shoulders, showed me the two Crows urging their horses down the steep slope at their very best speed, while, by the way they had flung their rifles across their shoulders without reloading them. I knew they had judged that my companion must have fallen from a wound received on the other side of the ridge, and as they considered me sure game, they did not deem it worth while to lose any of the distance between us, by reining in their horses to reload their rifles.

Thirty seconds might have passed after the two shots were fired, and I had almost gained level ground, when I heard an almost unearthly whoop, which I knew in a moment to come from the old hunter, and turning in my saddle, I saw the two Indians who fired at me had stopped stock still and were loading their rifles in the greatest possible hurry, while some hundred and fifty yards further up the hill, stood old Judah, just in the act of taking aim at the third savage who had raised the ridge and came sweeping down the trail with his rifle levelled at the hunter.

At the instant I was looking for the flash of my companion's rifle, the old frontiersman let fall the muzzle of his rifle, and a breath later dropped it entirely, he drew himself up to his full height, and turning towards the single Crow, he uttered a peculiar fainting whoop of defiance, which drew forth a yell of rage from the savage who came dashing on at a furious speed, still covering the hunter with the muzzle of his rifle.

He was scarcely thirty yards from the old hunter, when, without checking the speed of his horse in the least, he fired. But the bullet whistled harmlessly by over the prostrate form of the way old hunter, who, quick as thought, dropped to the earth at the flash of the Indian's rifle.

The tremendous whoop of the hunter had started the two Crows beneath him; and with their half loaded rifles they sat there apparently bewildered and half stupefied at the sudden appearance of old Judah now in the rear, while the single warrior came thundering along down the hill side, his horse unmanageable, his rifle unloaded, and himself, accustomed to rough riding scarcely able to maintain his seat in his wild, plunging course down that rugged steep.

Almost before one could have counted ten, the horse had borne his rider to the spot where the hunter now no longer prostrate, but standing in the path, grasping in his right hand a fragment of rock, that a giant might have failed to wield, while his left was outstretched, as if to the next breath revealed his whole intention; for as the horse came dashing on, the veteran hunter grasped him by the nostrils with such a grip, that in an instant the frightened mustang was lung quivering back upon his haunches, while the Crow was flung violently to the earth, which he had barely touched when down came the ponderous rock upon his naked head, mangle and crushing his face and skull out of the very shape of humanity. Scarcely had the rock left his hand, when old Judah snatched his rifle from the ground, leaped upon the back of the Indian's horse, and with another whoop dashed right on down the steep pathway towards the two remaining Crows, who, as if panic-stricken at the death of their comrade, and the strange stratagem of the old hunter, turned and fled for life, while the cause of their terror came yelling and whooping on in swift pursuit.

When the Crows passed me they were so near and wholly defenceless that I could easily have brought down either or both of their horses with the butt of my crippled rifle. But I was so absorbed by the interest of the singular race that I scarcely noticed the fugitives, permitting them to pass by unmolested.

As old Judah drew up with me, I observed that he was guiding his horse from side to side as he dashed along the trail, holding the hide reins within his teeth, while he every few seconds poised his rifle in an instant and then lowered the muzzle again, until I comprehended that his intention was to get them in range so as to cover them both with his rifle.

He had passed me some thirty yards and the Crows were some fifty more in advance of him, when a sudden turn in the trail brought them in a line, and in less than three seconds the bullet in old Judah's rifle sped on its mission of death.

Striking the nearest Indian in the back of the neck, at the junction with the spine, it passed out through his throat and hit the other who must have turned his head on the instant, as the bullet hit him in the right eye, which it tore from its socket, and then buried itself in his brain.

Thirty minutes later, we were scouring away across the prairie towards the steamer, with three extra horses, the same number of rifles, and several articles of Crow property, which was of small value except as trophies of victory.

On the following day we picked up the remainder of our party, and in less than an hour thereafter, we were off on another buffalo hunt.

ALBANY, July 11th.

The business portion of Coxsack village, about 30 miles south of Albany, on the Hudson river, was entirely destroyed by fire last night. Forty buildings were totally destroyed, including three hotels and the post office. Loss estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000.

The whole of the lower landing was burned down with the exception of a dry goods store, kept by a Mr. Lasher. The building saved was fire proof. Some twenty-five houses were burned to the ground.

New York, July 7th.

Robert Schuyler was well known in Boston, doubtless from his extensive business relations, his family connections, and the circumstances of his collegiate education. He was graduated at Harvard University in 1817, in a class remarkable for the talent of its members, as it included among others, George Bancroft, S. A. Elliot, Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tving, (of St. George's Church, N. Y.) and Cal b Cushing. Stephen Schuyler was one of the class at Cambridge in 1820. These gentlemen are grandsons of General Schuyler, of revolutionary fame, the nephews of Alexander Hamilton. Their father married for his second wife the daughter of a distinguished physician of eastern Massachusetts, and their relatives are well known in financial and literary circles in Boston.—Correspondence of Boston Transcript.

UNITED STATES COURT.—This court adjourned this forenoon, having been in session ten days. Over one hundred causes were disposed of; among these were two causes for infringement of a patent right. William T. Sterling was convicted of embezzling letters from his post office and sentenced to Waupun for ten years. John Drake plead guilty to the indictment against him for stealing letters from U. S. mail and sentenced to 1 year's imprisonment. Henry Wentworth was acquitted of the charge of counterfeiting coin, and the jury was not able to agree as to Wm. Wentworth; Henry is again arrested for passing counterfeit coin. These and the other cases pending are for trial at a special term to be held at Milwaukee on the second Monday of November next.

A special term for law and chancery business is ordered to commence at Milwaukee on the first Monday of September next.—Madison Argus 13th.

The Louisville Courier says that one of the jurors in the Ward trial has been expelled from the church to which he belonged in Elizabethtown, for having sworn that he had formed no opinion in that case, when it was proved that he had repeatedly expressed an opinion. Other evidence was also elicited which will be laid before the grand jury.

Charles T. Shelton, of New York, denies that he is a defaulter to the Empire state dressing company, and he states that it is more than a year since he resigned the presidency, when his accounts were all right.

The Daily Gazette.

MONDAY MORNING, JULY 17, 1851.

MADISON CONVENTION.—We published Saturday morning a portion of the proceedings of this convention, and ought to have had the full official report for to-day's paper; but the want of a daily mail with Madison will throw over its publication till to-morrow.

It will be nothing new to the readers of the Gazette to be told that we viewed that convention with distrust—that we feared its objects were more the exaltation of individuals than the advancement of a principle; and that its controlling spirit would be such that we could have no sympathy and would have no connection with it. Thus regarding it, and with no disposition to readily change a pre-conceived opinion of its character, one of the editors attended it to see for himself and trust no man's report concerning it. It is true that some things were said to which we cannot subscribe, and that some of the earlier indications did not promise an auspicious result. Some men were in attendance and talked whom we should have preferred would have stayed away, and the hissing of an allusion to Henry Clay by Mr. Densmore of the Kenosha Telegraph, in which he was joined by a very few others, was an im pardonable exhibition of bigotry and intolerance. Yet when the convention formally assembled, and the proceedings were to go to the public with the mark of deliberation and authority; it is equally true that its action was characterized by a far better spirit and more moderation than we feared would prevail, and that its platform embodied no controverted questions or side issues which could have only divided those who agreed upon the object proposed in the call and were desirous to unite their efforts for its accomplishment. We found a more conciliating feeling among the mass of free soilers than we expected, less disposition to urge men and pore to labor for measures, and to a far greater extent than we had any idea a willingness among conservative and leading whigs to unite in a common effort against what they regarded as a wanton invasion of northern rights and disregard of northern sentiment. Whether this feeling is to continue, and future efforts are to be wisely directed, or whether the spirit fared in the convention is to be developed hereafter, we cannot tell. We are sure, however, of this: Our own course has been dictated by what we deem the exigencies of the times demand, and seems to be justified by the prevailing whig sentiment of the state; and though not decided upon without reluctance, our stand has been deliberately taken. We feel that the issue proposed in the platform of the convention has been forced upon the north, and that there is no alternative but to accept it, or yield everything at the nod of any northern demagogue who may bid for southern votes, or that may be required by an ever-exacting local interest. We should have preferred to meet this issue in the whig ranks under a pure whig organization; we believe the whig party of the north to be true upon this question, and that it has heretofore offered the only practicable opposition to the slave power; but the action of our whig friends in this and other states points to the path we have now taken, and we follow it hoping for the best, believing that we abandon no principle, knowing we change no opinion, though we sacrifice no inconsiderable amount of feeling.

THE CHOLERA.—The country is full of exaggerated reports of the prevalence of this disease. It is indisputable that it exists in many places, and that its existence affords good reason if not for alarm, at least for prudence and discretion and the adoption of all preventive means to prevent its extension; but it is also certain that its greatest and most fatal ravages have been confined to emigrants, whose habits and circumstances have peculiarly exposed them to its attacks. The late hot weather, too, has had a predisposing effect, and the general health of the country, to excite apprehensions for a general visitation of the disease, if the people will avoid the well-known incentives to an attack and will promptly treat the equally well-known symptoms that precede it. In this city we have heard of but two cases, and in those there was an obvious imprudence and negligence on the part of the patients which rendered their deaths a matter of no wonder, and should excite no fear on the part of those who are prudent in their habits and attentive to their health.

As an instance of the exaggerated nature of the reports to which we have alluded we annex a statement made by the health officer of Rockford, Ill., a place where we have heard the disease prevailed with fearful mortality:

ROCKFORD, July 10, 1851.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—There has been seventeen deaths of cholera, since the 25th day of June.

Of these, five were Irish; nine, Swedes; and three, Americans.

The first death by cholera in this city was on the 26th of June—the person, an Irishman from Warren, and came to this city some few hours before he died. The Swedes were direct from Sweden via Chicago.

NEWTON CRAWFORD,

Health Officer.

WAUKESHA PLAINDALE.—The Waukesha Chronotype has passed into the hands of A. F. Pratt and taken the name of Plaineale. Mr. Pratt, for a few months past, has been connected with the editorial department of the Wisconsin. He represents the "Barstow and balance" portion of the "democracy" in Waukesha, and is ready for a fight at any time with his opponents, the most bitter of whom are in the "democratic" household.

ATTEMPTED RAPE.—An Irishman named Connell, has been committed to jail in Waukesha for attempting a rape on a young girl 10 years old. The old sinner is between 60 and 70.

At a meeting of the Milwaukee horticultural society, last Friday, it is reported that "since the last report on strawberries one of the most active members of the society has thoroughly tested under a variety of circumstances Newland's Mammoth Albion. The plants and fruit have been examining a member of the committee on fruits and both unite in pronouncing it an UNMITIGATED HUMBBUG."

We cannot say from a experience in this vicinity anything about the merits of the fruit grown by the plants of Mr. Newland, as we have heard of no freisher who has been lucky enough to get berries, but Mr. Newland, if an honest man, was surely unfortunate in having the far larger proportion of his plants die on his hands before selling them. Out of 25 purchased by us, not more than four ever showed the first system of life, though carefully set according to directions, and but two now survive. Some persons we know did not raise a single plant any variety, while a few saved a very small portion of the entire number purchased.

FAILURE OF THE BISHOPS.—The Milwaukee papers say that the reported failure of the Messrs. Bishop in consequence of the Schuyler operations is unfounded, and that their loss will not exceed $20,000. The report of their failure also from their suffering certain paper to be posted. The Sentinel says a thorough examination shows them to stand with better credit than ever, and liberal offers of discount have been made to them by the best New York banks. The money for the monthly estimates of the Lake Shore road has arrived, and is ready to-day to be paid out.

With regard to the Watertown railroad, on which the Bishops are also contractors, of course this intelligence is also favorable. How far the railroad company may be the losers by any securities placed in Schuyler's hands for negotiation remains to be seen. Several of its officers are now in New York, and we shall learn the truth soon.

The N. Y. Herald says that there is a large amount of bonds of the Illinois Central railroad company afloat with the October coupon cut off. This may be all right, but it looks very strange. It has given rise to suspicions that they have not been legally or properly issued. Why the October coupon should be cut off so many months before maturity, is a mystery we should like to see explained.

A committee of this company who have examined into the amount of indebtedness from the Messrs. Schuyler to the company report that they find the total amount to be $102,427.08, and that the company received, and now hold collateral securities, which the committee consider amply sufficient, being satisfied on definite inquiry that they would any day sell for more money than they are pledged for.

WATER CURE JOURNAL.—This excellent publication commences its eighteenth volume, with the present number. There are few monthlies conducted with more ability than this, and none that more forcibly advocate the peculiar system for which it is principally designed. In its mechanical execution it is a model of perfect typography. The price per copy is $1: five copies, $4; ten copies, $7, and twenty copies, $10. Address Fowles and Wells, 308 Broadway, New York.

The Phenological Journal commences its twentieth volume also this month, and the same may be said of it as above. It is afforded at the same price as the Water Cure Journal, and may be had by addressing the same publishers.

Ex-senator Clemens (of Florida), has addressed a letter to Mr. Letcher of Va., saying he is the attorney for Samuel Colt, and that he desires to appear as a witness before the committee of the house, and that the examination should be thorough into the influences employed to carry through measures of legislation. But he hopes the inquiry will be confined to Col. Colt's application for the extension of his patent, for if they should be made into the influences used to carry the Nebraska bill, it would cause great delay, which might affect Col. Colt's interest. This allusion to Nebraska is the unkindest cut of all.

Washington cor. N. Y. Tribune.

Mr. Letcher received another home shot during a discussion in the house upon his motion for the appointment of a committee to investigate this matter of the Colt patent. Some one suggested to him that he embody a proposition to investigate whether members had been bribed to oppose any bills pending before the house. As some of the Milwaukee railroad lobby are again in Washington, it might have been thought the testimony, one way or the other, was ready at hand.

Edwin Groswell has formally withdrawn from the Albany Argus, and is succeeded by Gideon J. Tucker, who has been for some time associated with Sherman Groswell in the editorial department. Of late years the older Groswell has written but little for the paper, having been connected with a steamship line in New York.

MINNESOTA RAILROAD LAND BILL.—The first section of the Minnesota railroad land bill fixes the initial, or commencing point of the road to be constructed from the state line to St. Paul and Lake Superior, between ranges nine and seventeen. It is the same bill laid on the table in the early part of the session in the house of representatives, and was "lifted" by being reported as a new bill.

The grand jury of the criminal court, at Cincinnati, have found a true bill of indictment against Peter Kroger, a catholic priest, for an attempt to commit a rape on the person of a young German girl, while at the confessional.

The land distribution bill of Mr. Bennett was taken up in the house of representatives on the 11th inst., and postponed till next December.

THE BOSTON FAILURE.—The Boston papers report the failure there of Willis & Co., who were engaged in the California trade, as well as in railroad speculations. The liabilities of the firm are very large, from the extensive business which they have followed, being reported the largest exchange brokers in that city.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.—The secretary of state gives official notice of the election of the various state officers to be elected this fall, and if the amendments to the constitution to be submitted to the people. As a matter of general interest we publish the latter:

Amend section 4 of article 4, as to read as follows: "The members of assembly shall be chosen biennially, by single districts, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, by the qualified electors of the several districts; such districts to be bounded by county, precincts, town or ward lines, to consist of contiguous territory and to be in as compact a form as possible."

Amend last clause of section 5 of same article, as to read as follows: "The senate districts shall be numbered in regular series. The senators chosen by the present odd numbered districts, in the year 1851, shall hold their offices until the last day of December, 1856. The senators chosen by the present even numbered districts, in the year 1855, shall hold their offices until the last day of December, 1858. Thereafter senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, but the legislature at any new apportionment, shall so classify the senators to be elected from any additional senate district, which may be formed, that the term of office of all senators elected from even numbered districts shall expire at the same time, and the term of office of all those elected from odd numbered districts shall expire at the same time."

Amend section eleven as to read as follows: "The legislature shall meet at the seat of government once in two years, and not oftener unless convened by the governor."

Each elector may vote for or against the first of the above named amendments by depositing a ballot containing the following words: "For amendment to section four," and "against amendment to section four," and for or against the second of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words, "for amendment to section five," or "against amendment to section five," and for or against the third of the above amendments by depositing a ballot containing the words "for amendment to section eleven," or "against amendment to section eleven." The votes given by any elector for or against any or all of said amendments shall be on one ballot, and to be deposited in a separate box prepared for the purpose. The qualification of the electors to be the same, and the votes canvassed and returned in the same manner as in elections for state officers.

THE STATE PRINTING.—The secretary of state some days since awarded the contract for the public printing for two years from the 1st of January next, to James Densmore, of the Kenosha Telegraph, as the lowest bidder. From that award Mr. Brown of the Madison Democrat has appealed to the board of state officers; the governor, attorney-general and the treasurer. The appeal was heard Friday last, but the decision has not yet been made.

NEW HAVEN, July 11th.

EXECUTION OF JENNINGS.—Michael Jennings, who murdered Mrs. Bradley, of North Haven, on the 21st of July, 1853, was hung this morning. He was brought out upon the scaffold at about ten minutes past ten, accompanied by two Roman Catholic priests. He seemed to be possessed of good spirits until they and the officers took leave of him, when he seemed much affected and cried.

The cap was drawn down over his face and his legs were tied at about twenty minutes past ten, when the sheriff going down the scaffold steps, put his foot on the last stair. The trap-door fell and the murderer was deprived of life.

After having hung twenty minutes, he was pronounced to be dead by the physicians, and the body was then taken down. He made no confession unless to the priest, but asserted his innocence to the last. The gallows upon which he was hung was the same as was used in executing Foote, McCaffrey and others.

The jail yard, in which the execution took place, was very much crowded with spectators. Outside three or four hundred persons were assembled, but were prevented from getting near the gallows by the National Blues and the Grays, who were on duty throughout the proceedings. Among the crowd on the outside were a large number of women, some of whom attempted to pass inside the ground but were prevented.

THE DAILY GAZETTE.

THEFT.—A man named Lepore was taken up Friday afternoon for stealing money at the American House. He was committed in default of bail. On Saturday he was tried before Justice Bates and fined $20. In default of payment he was again committed to jail, and a search of his dwelling house resulted we hear in finding a somewhat general assortment of articles undoubtedly stolen.

STATE FAIR.—The Waukesha Plaindealer says "it is rumored that the next fair of the State Agricultural Society is to be held at Janesville, instead of Milwaukee, on account of the hotel-keepers refusing to entertain their guests upon that occasion at the usual prices charged."

We know nothing of any such decision, though we have heard complaints of the nature alluded to.

We find the following in a report of the proceedings in the supreme court on the 11th inst. For a daily paper, and these proceedings occurring but forty miles from Janesville, their announcement six days after their occurrence may seem unusual despatch, but when it is recollected what admirable mail facilities we are at present enjoying, any wonder on the subject will cease.

In case of Wm. M. Tallman appellee vs. Wm. Truesdell et al. appellants, on appeal from Rock circuit court, a motion was made by J. B. Bennett for appellants, to vacate the order of dismissal of a previous day of the term, and to restate cause. The motion was argued by Bennett and Orton for appellants, and J. A. Sleeper for appellee, and allowed on payment of $15 to solicitor of appellee and the costs of the dismissal and of this motion.

A MODEL ASSESSOR.—Mr. D. C. Bush, the corporation assessor of the village of Madison, has assessed the value of the property of that village at one million, two hundred and forty thousand dollars! Mr. Bush declares that he took an oath to assess all property at its true value, and he has done so to the best of his judgment. If this rule be uniform throughout the state, many evils connected with our present mode of assessment would be avoided.

The Washington Union of the 11th officially announces the appointment by the president of John McKee to the office of district attorney of New York, vice Chas. O'Connor, resigned.

"HARD SHELL" CONVENTION.—The hard wing of the New York democracy convened at Syracuse, on the 12th inst., and organized by choosing Sam. Beardsley president, eight vice presidents and a like number of secretaries. Greene C. Bronson was unanimously nominated for governor, although he had declined a nomination.

The Potosi Republic doubts if it was good policy on the part of governor Barstow to remove professor Daniels from the post of state geologist, and appoint Mr. Percival in his place. It thinks Mr. P. too old to discharge the duties of so laborious a work.

DAVIS PAIN KILLER.—An invaluable medicine at this season of the year, can be had at all times and in any quantity at their depot here by J. B. HOLTEN, KEMP & CO.

CANARY HEMP AND RAPE SEED.—Neatly put up in pound papers, warranted fresh and clean. J. B. HOLTEN, KEMP & CO.

ZINC WHITE.—3,000 lbs. French and American now being received. This article will be sold at a low figure. J. B. HOLTEN, KEMP & CO.

IN COMBINATION WITH THE LILLIPUTIAN FAMILY.

Eight in number, to be exhibited in a few days at the Apollo Hall, in Janesville.

THIRTY Thousand valuable and costly Gifts are to be distributed among our Patrons. Crayonlike Painting, Leather Relievo and Papier Maché Work.

MRS. LA DOW AND MISS WINTERS have taken rooms for a few days at Mrs. Streeter's residence, on Main street, one door above the corner of Milwaukee street, and will give lessons in the above branches of useful and ornamental work.

Pupils will be received and thoroughly instructed in either or all of these requirements, on such terms as will be satisfactory. Materials furnished, and pupils allowed to retain the same, which they are instructed. Usually, these pieces will be themselves, if sold, more than pay the cost of tuition. An examination of specimen work is respectfully invited. Janesville, July 11, 1854. d1w prosperity, possessing extensive water-power, and surrounded by the best farming country in the world—as every

AGAIN & AGAIN

THE BOSTON STORE.

Let the Horn be Blown!

"Sound the loud trumpet o'er land and o'er sea,"

"WHOLESALE TRIUMPHANT, and over shall be."

THIS is the middle of the nineteenth century, the first half of which has produced more knowledge and civilization than any fifty years of our Christian Era.

The great controlling power of this age is its commerce—indeed, this may be truly called the commercial age. It has been well said by an ancient writer that

"Man wants but little here below," and to supply those wants

WHEELLOCK

Announces to every people and every tongue, to both sexes and all ages, to all sections of all gauges, that finding his old store empty

TOO SMALL!

He has been compelled, in order to be able to supply the immense call for goods at his establishment, to

Double the capacity of his Store Rooms!

Having purchased this spring, for this market, to be sold this season,

$39,007 00 Worth of Goods!

But who can expect to read in the brief space of one life all the articles which are to be found in this

BOSTON STORE CONTAINS.

Indeed, history must be turned to the searcher of knowledge for a full list of the immense

STOCK OF SUMMER GOODS,

His inimitable selection of

Fancy Dress Goods!

He has over

10,000 Yards of Silk Barges,

of every style and price, and it is with no great difficulty that the fair dames of this fair valley can select,

FROM ONE THOUSAND PIECES,

Of all patterns and ranging in price from SIX CENTS Per Yard to Twenty-Eight Cents, such dresses as will add to their exquisite beauty, though it may as a general thing, be as difficult to add to that beauty as it is to give to a fine gold, paint the Lily, or add perfume to the Violet.

It must not be inferred that we offer only these and the many other articles for outer apparel, such as Shawls and Foulard Silks, but all manner of

are on hand, so that every one may be entirely accommodated with every article of female apparel—Eved French and Foreign Gaiters, do do do

Ladies' Embroidered Boots, Embroidered sewed Congress Boots,

LADIES' MOROCCO POLKAS,

And all the articles manufactured of the best styles—So that of this store, so far as articles which adorn La Belle sex are concerned, it may be truly said

"CUSTOM cannot state the infinite variety."

While the Boston Store has made provision to protect the feet, it can also boast that it has all sorts of

GLOVES,

by which hands can be protected and retain

"The white complexion of fair Juliet's hand."

And in taking leave of those of whom it is no exaggeration to say they are the Nonpareils of better days, of the perfection of Mr. Wheelock assures his fair customers that his assistants and auxiliaries are those who unite great knowledge of the business, fine personal presence and affability of manner to a determination to discharge conscientiously their several and respective duties—while they may have the proper desire to effect sales, they will never in limitation of many of our contemporaries attempt to accomplish the object by equivocation, misrepresentation, exaggeration, tergiversation, fabrication, or by direct lying.

"Treasures like best gifts to men."

And now to the wants of the

COARSE-HAND SEX.

Mr. Wheelock has every kind of material to make these articles of dress that give to man his individuality—

PANTALOONS,

CALF "BEWITS," COW HIDE DO., GAZELLE DO., PATENT LEATHER DO., GIRAFFE DO.,

HATS

That fit every head from the Websterian brow to the country plowman's dome, from the sleek cap of cap to the closely shaven after the Hibernian fashion to that of him who wears the well-pomaded, ambrosialized, elongated Hyperion curls.

And to the spectator who buys to sell again,

The Boston Store

Can, at lower rates of purchase than any other establishment west of the Alleghany mountains, furnish that class of exchanges so that riches will fill their pockets as well as the pockets of the poor.

DOMESTIC GLASSWARE, WORTED,

Pocket Handkerchiefs, Inkstands, Cotton Yarn, Ready-made Vests, Ground Pepper, Pineapples, Looking Glasses, Ready-made Over Coats, Pants, Rascals, Flat Iron, and Cottons, and a full assortment of the whining school-boy with whining morning face bears on his arm, Chests, Norwegian Bandboxes and Hair Trunks, Tea, Tobacco and Wicking.

In the

Line may be found the BENNINGTON, the PARIAN and the LAVA Manufacture, Pitchers for milk or water, Bed Pans for males or females, Pots for tea or chamber purposes, Spoons, Bowls for washing, for bread and milk, or sugar. Candy dishes, children's Toys and Flower Pots, MAINE LIQUOR LAW VOLUMES and Lager Beer Mugs.

And in fine, the proprietor of this establishment can with all confidence assure those who have been in the habit of trading at Janesville, though they have

"Often seen corruption bold and double till it o'erturns the stone."

they will find that the representations which shall be made to them by that proprietor or his clerks will not

"Stand like forfeit in a Barber shop, More in stock than mark."

KIER'S ROCK OIL.

FROM a Well 400 feet deep, Near Pittsburgh,
Pa., is offered to the public as a Natural Medicum of no common value. It is a different thing from the old Rocky or American Oil, and is used EXTERNALLY as well as internally. As a local remedy in Paralysis, Piles, Rheumatism, Deafness, Loss of Sight, Burns, &c.
—also, as a valuable Internal Remedy for Piles, Ague, Scorbutic, Dropsy, Rheumatism, &c. It is the only of the Skin, Female Diseases, Worms, Bladder and Kidneys, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, &c. It is the only investigating Physician, as well as the suffering patient, to become acquainted with its merits.

Discovered in 1849, it has within 2 or 3 years, made multitudes of cures, and multitudes of friends—and as soon as tried the Sales not only increase but hold out testimony to its great merit, is constantly accumulating in the hands of the proprietor by certificates, letters, and in other ways.

IT CURES THE WHOLE MAN—flesh and blood—skin and bones—from head to foot—how it acts upon the system—upon diseases—different constitutions, we cannot fully tell. While it is both cathartic and triniting, it is also a powerful and a REGULAtor. A leading principle in it is NITROGEN. When you once have it in the family, you will not be without it.

Full as the world is of Patent Medicines, it is the only not best to suppress this, the work of NATURE—to make room for Human Infirmities. Price 50 cents per bottle. It can be had of wholesale dealers at the large cities and towns in the West, or of the proprietor.

every three hours in the absence of the fever will cure you of Ague or Malaria. Physicians, Druggists, and all friends of the afflicted will do well to recommend this Oil for PROLAPSE OF UTERUS, and good will be done —take the usual dose 2 or 3 times a day, and bathe the lower part of the back with it. Have you SCROFULA?
This medicine will eradicate it, root and branch, at least get it unpropagated. Get circular of directions for adults and children, gratis of the agents. A trial

AND WONDERFUL POWER, in the INSTANT RELIEF
AND PERMANENT CURE of nervous diseases.

HISTORY.

Pulvermaher's Chain are presented to the public, as the most efficient and certain mode of applying this powerful agent. They have been secured by patent in France, (where they were invented) England, Germany, Austria, Belgium, and one year since introduced into the United States, and are now being sold by the author in every Hospital in the State of New York, and highly recommended by professors Valentine Mott, Van Buren, Post, Carnochan, of that city, who daily make use of them in their practice.

THE WORLD IS CHALLENGED to produce so many well authenticated certificates of cure, not only from intelligent patients, but from scien-

ASTONISHING, and thousands who visit the Crystal Palace where they are on exhibition, seldom fail to obtain a chain before they leave the city.

are beginning to see the skin directly, without the use of
